

New serviced apartments for London

SERVICED apartments provider SACO is to launch three new buildings in London this summer, the first to be operated by the company itself. Together with its partner network, it will provide more than 1,500 apartments in more than 85 locations around London. Sales and marketing director Jo Redman said: "Until now our own apartments have been in regional towns and cities. We have had a long-held ambition to operate our own apartments in London but it was vital to find high quality buildings in the right location."

The company provides 11,000 serviced apartments in 35 countries, with rates commissionable to agents. Net rates are also available.
